

Acknowledgments

The Seventh California Islands Symposium was sponsored by a collection of agencies, non-profit organizations, and academic institutions, whose diversity reflects the myriad resources of the islands themselves. In particular, we would like to thank the members of the organizing committee: Shauna Bingham, Julie Bursek, Tim Coonan, Carlos de la Rosa, Kate Faulkner, David Garcelon, Michael Glassow, Ann Huston, Lyndal Laughrin, Danielle Lipski, Yvonne Menard, Fred Piltz, and Catherin Schwemm. Additional assistance for the conference was provided by Emily Dekker-Fiala and the George Wright Society, and by John Brooks, John Curwen, Aura de Anda, Bill Faulkner, Ulysses Huerta, Dick Johnson, Cindy Leon, Carol Peterson, Tina Reed, and Rocky Rudolph.

Financial support for the symposium and proceedings was provided by Minerals Management Service, the NOAA Channel Islands Marine Sanctuary, the Montrose Settlements Restoration Program, the National Park Service California Mediterranean Research Learning Center, the Santa Cruz Island Foundation, the Sea Grant Program of the University of Southern California, Channel Islands National Park, and the Institute for Wildlife Studies.

The editors thank Tim Coonan, Julie Young, and the many anonymous reviewers whose time and feedback enhanced the quality of papers in the proceedings and helped our authors present their research in the best manner possible. In particular, Tim provided us with valuable guidance and moral support throughout this entire process. Dick Johnson assisted with the cover design, and Rocky Rudolph assisted with generating the maps of the California Islands. Finally, we thank Megan Potter, whose patience, diligence, and keen editorial eye were very much appreciated in the final stages of editing and layout.
